What is a Wine Club?

Wine clubs are subscription services that deliver bottles of wine directly to yourdoor on a regular basis, typically monthly orquarterly. They offer a convenient way to explore new wines without having to spend hours researching at your local wine store or guessing what you might like.

At their core, wine clubs are designed to help you discover wines you may not otherwise try. Some clubs focus on well-known varietals and regions, while others specialize in boutique wines from small vineyards or international selections that you can’t find locally. Many people join wine clubs to build their palate, grow their wine knowledge, or simply make sure they always have a bottle on hand to enjoy with dinner or share with friends.

There are several types of wine clubs. Some are curated clubs, where wine experts select bottles for you each month based on seasons, food pairings, or themes. Others are personalized clubs, using ratings and preferences to create shipments tailored specifically to member tastes. Clubs can feature only reds, only whites, or a mixed selection.

Different types of wine clubs include:

- Winery-specific clubs: From a single winery, often offering their fullrange and exclusive wines.
- Themed clubs: Offer wines from various producers, often with a specific theme (e.g., organic, international, boutique, even boxed wine!
- Budget-focused clubs: Offer good value at a lower price point.
- Premium clubs: Focus on high-end, rare, or collectible wines.
- Clubs for specific wine types: Red, white, sweet, sparkling, etc.
- Branded clubs: Associated with newspapers, organizations, celebrities.

What Is Included in a Wine Club?

Every wine club is different when it comes to what it includes. The type of club (winery-specific versus branded clubs) will often dictate what you can expect to get from a wine club subscription. When we review a club, we always write about what is included because it can be a big differentiator.

Here are some of the things you can look for in a club, understanding that none of them will have all of these but some of them might have multiple.

- Wine tasting notes for each wine, including food pairing suggestions
- Ability to rate the wines
- App to track and/or rate your wines
- Gifts with purchase such as corkscrews or wine glasses
- Gift wrapping
- Monthly magazines with general wine information
- Online tasting opportunities or events
- In-person tasting opportunities or events

Wine Clubs as Gifts

Wine clubs make excellent gifts for birthdays, anniversaries, weddings, holidays, or corporate appreciation. They're unique, practical, and bring joy month after month.

Gifting a wine club shows thoughtfulness and sophistication, and it's a gift that won't be forgotten after the wrapping paper is thrown away. Remember the joke in "Christmas Vacation" about how a jelly of the month club is the "gift that keeps on giving?" Wine clubs are the exact same only a little classier and a lot more customizable to the recipient.

Wine clubs offer a unique and thoughtful gift that can continue throughout the year. Each month, the recipient will receive a new selection of wines, allowing them to explore different varieties and expand their palate. It’s a gift that shows that you put thought into choosing something special for them.

Wine clubs are also a great gift for wine lovers who are hard to shop for. Instead of trying to guess their favorite type of wine or finding a specific bottle, a wine club allows them to try a variety of wines from different regions and wineries. It’s a gift that is sure to be appreciated and enjoyed, and it takes the stress out of trying to find the perfect wine for that special someone. Plus, it’s a gift that can be enjoyed throughout the year, making it a thoughtful and practical present for any occasion from wedding to anniversary to Mother's Day. (Especially Mother's Day… just ask Tricia and her mom, Cindy)

How to Choose the Best Wine Club Gift

Choosing the ideal wine club gift isn't merely about opting for the one with the most eye-catching advertisements or the largest discounts. Instead, it involves discovering a club that aligns with your recipient's taste preferences, suits your budget, and provides an experience they'll genuinely appreciate. After years of evaluating numerous clubs at Wine Club Group, here are the essential factors we suggest considering to ensure your choice is one they'll be thrilled to receive.

Budget Considerations

Wine clubs come in all price ranges – from under $50 for introductory shipments to $100+ per month for premium selections. Think about how you want to spend total on the gift and how many shipments you want them to receive. Also, consider introductory versus ongoing pricing if you are not paying for it all up front. Many clubs have low intro offers but higher regular shipments, so calculate your long-term spend.

The Recipient's Wine Preferences

Most clubs will ask if you prefer all reds, all whites, or a mix. Some focus on traditional varietals like Cabernet and Chardonnay, while others feature more adventurous selections. If you know the type of wine the recipient prefers (red v. white), choose that. If you do not know, stick with a mixed variety club. Want something even more unique? Consider an organic wine club or a club that allows you to pair wine with something like chocolate or cheese.

Shipping Restrictions

Not all clubs ship to every state due to alcohol distribution laws. Before choosing a club, double-check their shipping policies to the recipient's address. Some states have stricter regulations, and clubs like Firstleaf will clearly note eligibility on their checkout pages. Shipping laws are so complicated that we actually created pages for every single state.

Packaging and Delivery

Most wine clubs offer little or no “gift” options. Some willallow you to send an ecard in advance to let them know the gift is coming. This is great for last-minute gifts. A few clubs will offer some type of special gift wrapping orpersonal note.

Final Tip for Choosing

Take yourtime reading reviews (we have plenty at Wine Club Group) to see real customer experiences. Look for notes about wine quality versus price, customer service responsiveness, and gift options. The right wine club will fit your budget and be delivered in a timely manner.

Wine Club Alternatives

If you are looking forsomething with someofthe same wine club benefits butnot wanting to order a subscription, we've reviewed a couple of other popular gift options as well.

Wine Bundles

Manywine clubs and onlinewine retailers offer “bundles” as a one-time purchase. These are a selection of wines curated by a particular theme, varietal, or vineyard. They vary in size from 2-12 bottles and often include discounts or shipping specials. They are an easy wasy to get a variety of new wines usually with tasting notes, pairing suggestions, etc.

Bundles make good gifts when you know someone has a particular taste such as sparkling wines, sweet wines, or one varietal. Bundles may also be an “entertainment ready” variety that would cover the various tastes of a small party.

Home Tasting Kits

Love the idea of sending a wine club so that they can taste various wines but they don't have a winery near them? Some clubs offer home tasting kits that allow you to try small tastes of a wide variety of wines or a couple of bottles of contrasting wines. These clubs usually include either virtual tasting seminars, videos or podcasts that describe the wines, or written instructions.

Final Recommendations

Choosing the right wine club gift comes down to:

- Budget: How much total do you want to spend on the gift?
- Presentation options: Are you looking to send something with pretty packaging or is the wine the star?
- Gift cards: Would you rather the recipient be able to choose the club themselves? Or do you need something last minute?
- No matter your choice, wine clubs make both fun and impressive gifts.

Read Our Reviews

A good wine club review will include...

- Photos of the shipment
- Photos of the bottles Photos of any "extras"
- Pricing, including shipping/handling
- Description of wine notes and pairing guides
- List of shipping states
- Applicable discounts or introductory rates

Reviewing wine clubs is less about the individual wine bottles and more about the club experience.
